In the first chapter of Genesis we are taught more clearly than any words can teach us what man becomes when he is a center to himself, and supposes that all things are revolving around him. But most of all these chapters prepare us for the announcement of truth which all history is to unfold, that the Word who said, "Let there be light," and there was light, who place the sun, moon, and stars in their orbits and call all organized creatures into life; and who is, in the highest sense, the Light of men—is the Head of all principalities and powers, the upholder of the universe.

This book is the beginning of the red thread of redemption that will weave its way all the way to the book of Revelation.
